Edux is a web application designed to enhance students' academic performance through advanced learning tools. By incorporating technologies such as LLMs, Edux helps students grasp course materials more thoroughly by offering explanations on a page-by-page or holistic basis for study resources like textbooks, slides, and syllabi. Interactive features like flashcards, quizzes, and custom study schedules help students stay organized and improve retention. Edux will also offer statistics that will help students analyze their work; for example, from the time that students took the course, a graph of overall success will be displayed. Moreover, recharge tests based on what the student has done wrong will be recommended to the student. Moreover, features will include a skill tree model, which generates subject-based skill trees that evolve as students complete quizzes, and a report-project checker that verifies the alignment of reports with projects using data from public GitHub repositories. Edux will be an extensive framework integrating multiple tools, including the skill tree and report-project checker, to support student learning.
